I express my artistic journey as a means of personal liberation, driven by a profound desire to challenge societal conventions through the power of thought. Within the constructs of social norms lie symbols that can inadvertently limit my own growth. Beneath my socially-acceptable exterior, a realm of intricate emotions occasionally finds expression in unconventional and intriguing ways. Through my art, I aim to convey the depth of my emotions and the essence of my being. I unleash my innermost thoughts and feelings onto the canvas by exploring cutting, twisting, merging, or hovering on the verge of fusion. This process allows me to find satisfaction, hidden from the causal observer's gaze. I find fulfillment in these aspects, as they represent the profound depths of my emotions. My artistic style often embraces pointed, sharp lines, which serve as expressive representations of the act of cutting, symbolizing the transformative power of thoughts. With gratitude, I embrace every vibrant moment of creativity, cherishing the privilege of immersing myself in the creation process
